UPF is an educational media organization founded by Michael Wolfe and Alex Kronemer, that uses the power of film to promote peace and greater understanding between people of diverse faiths.

UPF's emphasis is to share honest, humanizing stories of Muslims in the past and present, in an entertaining and compelling way that takes viewers beyond stereotypes. UPF aims to adhere to the highest standards of documentary film production and journalism, and all UPF films have aired on American television or been shown in theatres.
